

CENTER FOR ADVANCED STUDY IN THE BEHAVIORAL SCIENCES

February 5, 2007

For immediate release

Contact: Jane Stahl
(650) 321-2052 X220, jstahl@casbs.org

CASBS Announces Public Lecture & Discussion Series

As part of an effort to engage and involve the local community in the social and behavioral sciences, the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences (CASBS) at Stanford is hosting a public lecture and discussion series featuring the work of scholars who are currently Fellows.

"The social and behavioral sciences have much to contribute to our understanding of the most serious issues plaguing our nation and the world," says CASBS deputy director Anne Petersen. "We are grateful that some of our Fellows have volunteered to engage a broader public on some of these issues."

Events scheduled to date are:

March 1, 2007. Learning by Observing & Pitching In: Cultural Approaches to Learning, presented by Barbara Rogoff, UC Santa Cruz Foundation Professor of Psychology.

March 27, 2007. Law for a Flat World: Can a 19th Century Legal System Grow a 21st Century Economy? presented by Gillian Hadfield, Kirtland Professor of Law & Professor of Economics, University of Southern California Law School

April 17, 2007. Health Care for All? A discussion with Ezekiel Emanuel, Chair, Dept. of Clinical Bioethics, National Institutes of Health, Victor Fuchs, Professor of Economics and of Health Research & Policy, Emeritus, Stanford University, Hal Luft, Professor of Health Policy and Health Economics, UCSF, Stephen Shortell, Dean and Professor of Health Polity & Management, School of Public Health, UC Berkeley,

Each event starts at 6:30pm, and is held at CASBS, 75 Alta Road, Stanford.

To register or obtain more information, go to www.acteva.com/go/casbs, or call (650) 321-2052.